About AVF

WELCOME TO AVF 2027

The American Venous Forum (AVF) Annual Meeting is the leading global scientific event in the field of venous and lymphatic disorders. Each year, we gather to share cutting-edge research, debate position papers, and network with peers while exploring new technology, clinical trials, and industry innovations.

AVF 2027 will take place in Nashville, Tennessee, offering world-class meeting facilities, convenient travel access through Nashville Airport, and opportunities for unique networking events. Our layout ensures that the Exhibit Hall is a central hub for attendees, with direct access from General Sessions, meal symposia, and attendee lounges — maximizing interaction with industry partners.

"Research derived from quality scientific methodology has been a key principle of the American Venous Forum mission providing investigators initial and continued success in the basic and clinical sciences. Our industry support, collaboration, and partnership with the AVF ensures research conducted by young and experienced investigators can continue to expand and improve quality of care and life for our patients afflicted by chronic venous disorders."

Charitable Giving and Educational Grant Support

ATTENDEE SCHOLARSHIPS $2,000

Sponsor an attendee(s) at AVF 2027. Please inquire within. Our members generously support with personal donations and the AVF matches to help them attend from the U.S. and globally. We welcome your support with this effort as we help young learners lean into the conference.

DAY OF SERVICE AND IN-KIND ITEMS $2,500

Every year, the American Venous Forum extends its mission beyond the walls of our Annual Meeting to make a tangible impact on our host city. Through our Annual Day of Service, we partner with local organizations and community leaders in each new location to host health-focused events that serve the local population. The goal of every Day of Service is to improve the vascular health of at-risk populations by providing free screenings, comprehensive education, and accessible services. We are seeking in-kind items such as compression stockings, branded bags, and other medical supplies, as well as financial support to offset expenses that our team incurs as we put this day together. All contributors to the effort will be given special recognition on meeting signage, on rotating slides in all session rooms and in the program book.
